

THE ANNUAL TAUBENSCHLAG INSTITUTE LECTURE

Professor Meir Dan-Cohen

University of California at Berkeley

Dignity and Punishment

Tuesday, May 23, 2017, 18:00

The Sonia and Edward Kossoy Conference Room (307)

Trubowicz Building, Buchman Faculty of Law

The Speaker

Meir Dan-Cohen is a professor at the University of California at Berkeley, School of Law, where he holds the Milo Reese Robbins Chair in Legal Ethics and an Affiliate Professor at the Philosophy Department there. He was also a faculty member at Columbia University Law School, New York and The Buchman Faculty of Law, Tel-Aviv University. His main interests are in criminal law theory and more broadly in legal, moral and political philosophy, with a special emphasis on conceptions of the actors, individual and collective, that occupy these fields. Among other publications, he is the author of Rights, Persons, and Organizations: A Legal Theory for Bureaucratic Society (University of California Press, 1986; 2nd Edition, Quid Pro Books, 2016); Harmful Thoughts: Essays on Law, Self, and Morality (Princeton University Press, 2002); and Normative Subjects: Self and Collectivity in Morality and Law (Oxford University Press, 2016).